

What will you highlight from 2022?

Merry Christmas to you and your loved ones and welcome to the last edition of your 2022 Weekly Winning Resource all about the word highlight. It's time to highlight what you did well this year! As we bring 2022 to a close, you may find yourself thinking of all the things you should have done but didn't do. As the saying goes, "I am my own worst critic!" While we are sure you still have goals to achieve and things you didn't complete as you had planned, we are also sure there are many things you did well, and things that you accomplished. At least for this week, think about only those things. In this last week of the year, don't let regret creep in and discourage you. Instead, highlight the steps you made in the right direction and celebrate your success.
