

Always keep this.

Welcome to your Thanksgiving edition of your Weekly Winning Resource all about the word open. We love this time of year when the leaves are falling, the bon fires are roaring, and family comes together to celebrate the holidays. The year is coming to a close and a new year is on the horizon. It can be a fun and exciting time for many of us, but for some of us, it may be hard. There are challenges and there are losses. Most of us have had our fair share of both over the past couple of years. In difficult times, being open to new ideas and keeping an open mind can feel exhausting. Albeit tough, it can be exactly what you need to keep the fire burning. With an open mind, you can find the good in the bad, find new ways when you run into a dead end, and gain new information that was just what you were waiting for. There are exactly 6 weeks left in 2021. What will you be open to?
