

The price of greatness

We are happy to bring you this edition of your Weekly Winning Resource all about the word responsible. When you think about the word responsible, what comes to mind? Would you consider yourself a responsible person, someone capable of being trusted? Most likely (at least we hope), you would answer yes, of course! The deeper questions we want you to consider though is, are you responsible for achieving your goals? Do you take full responsibility for making sure you do what it takes to achieve what you are supposed to achieve? Are you capable of being trusted with the purpose you were born for? Lastly, do you realize you have a responsibility to be successful? In the article we found for you this week, the author states a responsible person can be defined as one who accepts the results of the decisions that he or she makes. Are you willing to accept the results if you do not achieve the goals or dreams you desire? At I've Decided, our mission is your success. There is nothing we desire more than to see you successfully achieve whatever it is you want to accomplish. We believe once you fully become aware that being the best you can be, your success, and achieving your goals, is a responsibility that you must take full accountability for, we know that nothing will hold you back. You owe it to yourself, to God, and to every person whose life you will touch, to fulfill your purpose.
