

Getting a clear vision and a decisive direction in life.

Starting with your childhood to the present time. Write down any significant events, experiences, influences, advantages, disadvantages, gifts and talents. Write down the values you live by and what makes you the most happy. What have you learned from your past mistakes and what have you learned from experiences that you can share that would help other people going through the same things.

What is keeping you from starting right now, with what you have, and where you are?

What does your best life look like? What are you the most afraid of?

What group of people can you serve best or what problem can you help solve?

What difference will it make? What is your massive why?